A CHICAGO ROMANCE.

Love Between the McCarthys and Gilhooleys.

A Delightful Story in Three Parts—How Sel tian McCarthy Won the Fair Ger-trude Gilbooley.

[Chicago Tribune.]

[Chicago Tribune.]

"And so you discard me forever, Gertrude Gilhooley?"

"I do," was the answer, in a low, sweet voice, while a pair of soft brown eyes suffused with tears looked tenderly up at Sebastian McCarthy. "You know my heart is yours, and that I would gladly give thee my hand, but papa says nay, and when he twitters the procession is apt to move"—and, saying this, the girl buried her face in her hands and sobbed convulsively.

"But think again, Gertrude," said the young man, in eager, anxious tones. "See if thy woman's wit may not discover aught that will avail to make our future pathway bright. I have loved

"Let me think," said the lady Gertrude, brushing back from her fair forehead the bang wnich so gracefully overhung its pearly surface, and placing carefully on a toe of the statue of Mercury which stood in the conservatory a generous hunk of chewing gum for which she had no immediate use, standing silently, by a workle speach for ing silently by a marble psyche for a moment, she turned suddenly to Sebas-

"They whose moated castle frets the sky on Archer avenue?"
"Aye, the same."
"I do."

"Get thee hither with all speed, and when you have crossed the drawbridge when you have crossed the drawbridge and tethered your palfrey in the terraced court, knock boldly on the front door, but relax not your vigilance an' you love me, for the Mulcaheys come of Norman blood and keep a dog. When the portal shall be opened and you are admitted to the presence of my aunt, the lady Constance Mulcahey, say to her that her favorite niece, Gertrude, seeks her aid; that a cruel father would wed her to one she loves not. It was the Lady Constance Mulcahey who spoke these words, and the one to she spoke was Sebastian Mc-Carthy.

"The plain is a good one," she con-'ine plain is a good one, she continued, tapping gently with a broomhandle the dainty foot that peeped from beneath her robe, "The Earl is working on the North side this week, and I shall not hear the clank of his dinner-bell until nearly 7 P. N., so that all will be over ere he comes. You may tell Gert that I will be fixed for her."

A cold, clear afternoon, in the festal A cold, clear atternoon, in the festal Christmas tide. Up Archer avenue came with merry tinkle of bell and proud prancing of blooded steeds draw-ing-room horse car No. 176. In one corner of the vehicle sat Gertrude and Sebastian, nestled together like little birds in the merry, agueish spring-time. Presently the car stopped. Sebastian was on his feet at once, his face expressing plainly the indignation that swept over his soul.

"I prithee do not leave me," said Gertrude, grasping his ulster with a convulsive clutch. convulsive cluten.
"Fear not, sweetest. I go but to see ful steeds.' He soon came back, and saying with a merry sigh, "It is a freight train on the Burlington crossing," again clasped Gertrude to his vest. The car moved on anon, and soon the happy couple were safe in the Castle Mulcahey.

The words that bound Gertrude and Sebastian together with the silken tether of matrimony had been said, and the happy groom had planted on the lips of his bride a large three-story-and-base-ment nuptial kiss, when suddenly the door of the room was opened, and Py-thagoras Gilhooley, Duke of Galway,

THE LOST FOUND.

The whole civilized world will be thrilled with excitement at the news from the long lost Jeannette, notwithstanding its unsatisfactory and contradictory character. For two years now nothing has been heard from the vessel and the opinion has been steadily gaining ground that she was irretrievably lost in the wastes of ice of the arctic regions. The mere fact of her useless and foolhardy journey was enough to give general currency to the belief that she would never return, while the long list of disastrous arctic expeditions of the same character would serve to substantiate the popular notion that her fate would be no better than her predecessors. The news received vesterday. while of the most meagre character. establishes the fact that the Jeannette has been found, whether in a wrecked and dismantled condition or safe and sound remains to be shown by later intelligence. The first news received yesterday was from Minister Hoffman of St. Petersburg, who telegraphed Secretary Frelinghuysen that the Jeannette was crushed in the ice on June 11th, in latitude 77 north, longitude 157 east. The cablegram contained the information that the crew had embarked in three boats, but only two had as yet been heard from. Boat No. 1, containing eleven men, under command of Engineer Melville, reached the month of Lens river September 19th, and boat No. 3, in charge of Captain DeLong, and containing Dr. Ambler and twelve men, reached the river some days later in a terrible condition. The remaining boat bearing the balance of the officers and crew and the Herald correspondent, Collins, has not yet been heard from and is supposed to be lost. The survivors on reaching Russian territory were rendered prompt assistance and are now doing well and in good hands. The second dispatch, which arrived last night, is from altogether different sources than the first, and gives an altogether different version of the finding of the missing vessel. This news is from London and conveys the glad intelligence that the Governor of Siberia has just issued a proclamation announcing that the Arctic voyage ship Jean nette is safe with all on board. The dispatch says that the Governor fitted out a special exploring party, who after great hardships and many delays found traces of the vessel and finally came up with her. The relief party discovered that all on board the Jeannette were safe and well and that the ship itself was strong and sound. The Jeannette people were greatly surprised at being the object of such general solicitude and expressed astonishment when told that nearly all Christian nations were at present preparing expeditions to en-gage in a search for their remains. dispatch goes on with a description of the return of the expedition, its report to the Governor and his superhuman ef-forts to transmit the news to London, but it is so singularly free from cold facts and contains so many glittering generalities that its genuineness will be surely questioned on all sides. Which dispatch is now to be accepted as the truth? Those who have friends on board the missing ship will certainly consider the latest news the most satis-

THE Jeannette was an English yacht: was fitted up by James Gordon Bennett, and has seen Arctic service previous to her present voyage. She was officered by men from the U.S. Navy and was manned by a select crew of thirty picked sailors. She left San Francisco in June, 1879. Her officers were George W. De Long, Commander; C. W. Chip and John W. Danenhower, Lieutenants; G. W. Melville, Past Assistant Engineer; M. Ambler, Past Assistant Surgeon and Captain Dunbar, Ice Pilot.

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—An extra Chicago special from London says: The Governor of Siberia has just issued a proclamation announcing that the Arctic voyage ship Jeannette is safe, with all on board well and her equipments intact. The Governor, who has taken for a long time great interest in Arctic explorations, caused an interest in Arctic explorations, caus extraordinary exploring party to be sent out to hunt for traces of the Jeannette, when he learned that fears were entertained that misfortune had overtaken her, and relief expeditions were being organized in her interest by different governments, Knowing the delays incidental to such governmental action he at overgrammats. such governmental action he at once equipped and sent out on his own account a party of the most experienced explorers at his command.

With most ample powers and most positive instructions these men at once entered into the undertaking with all their souls; and stuck to their work despite the most dangerous obstacles until they found the tracks of the lost ship and finally overtook her. The people aboard the Jeannette were much astonished when they were informed by the Siberian explorers that they had become the objects of solicitude, of all the civilized nations of the world, and that nearly all Christian Governments were preparing to make appropriations to fit out vessels, looking to a general search for what it was generally feared would prove to be only their remains. After ascertaining that the Jeannette was absolutely safe and all on board well and fully provided for, the Siberians hastened back to report the good news, for which, the Governor had impressed upon them, the whole scientific world was anxiously waiting. The Governor of Siberia at once dispatched special couriers with the years to have it to Londer to the soul result of the part of the With most ample powers and most posi-

In the Senate Ingersoll, of the commit-tee on Indian Affairs, reported favorably on the bill for the sale of land in Kansas, to the Miami Indians.

The nomination of Timothy O. Howe, as Postmaster-General, was confirmed. THE HOUSE COMMITTEES.

Speaker Keifer intends to announce the the House Committees next Wednesday, although the list is not yet fully completed in all its details. It is practically certain that Page, of California, will be made Chairman of the Committee on Commerce and Pacheco on Private Land Claims. SUCCESSFUL SARGENT. There is to-day very high and apparently ample authority for predicting that exsenstor Sargent will shortly after the holiday recess be appointed Secretary of the Interior. He is expected to arrive here in a day or two, and it is said he comes to Washington at the request of the President for the purpose of consultation in regard to his place in the Cabinet.

BLAINE'S BUSINESS.

A letter from Blaine to Prescott, Special Commissioner to Chili and Peru, has been sent to the Senate. It corrects the press report that the government is encouraging the claims of citizens against Peru which would enable the government to pay an indemnity to Chili and in return practically assume the ownership of Peruvian resources.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

It is stated on excellent authority that Secretary Hunt will remain at the head of the Navy Department. The report that Arthur is to marry the daughter of Secretary of State Frelinghuydaughter of Secretary of State Frelinghuysen is denied.

The President will spend Christmas with his family in New York, returning on the 31st and hold a New Year's reception on the 2d of January.

The Postmaster-General has issued an order directing it at on Monday, the 26th inst., and Monday the 2d of January the Postoffices of the United States shall be closed as on other legal holidays.

FOREIGN FACTS.

A Terrible Explosion in an English Mine-African Affairs.

LONDON, Dec. 20.—An explosion occurred about noon in the Orrel pit, belonging to the Abram Mining Company. The Orly pit adjacent was also terribly affected by the explosion. Of over sixty employees in the Orly pit only twenty-five were brought to the surface alive. It is feared the remainder perished. The supposition is that one hundred and eighty persons have been killed in the Orrell pit, as two hundred descended into the pit this morning. Ten injured persons, so far, have been recovered. The work of exploring the mine and rescuing the victims continues.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

It is now believed that only forty persons were killed. The Orrell mine is 150 yards above the Orly mine and the effect of the explosion in the former imprisoned 150 miners in the lower mine. These were subsequently rescued. Those rescued from the upper seam were seriously injured.

Thirty-four were killed and thirty-six others injured by the explosion in the coal mine at Boltan.

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—The Times' Washington special says; Guiteau's failure to carry out the threat to rip up his divorced wife's record on the witness stand, is owing to the fact that Mr. Dunmire told Scoville that if the prisoner attempted to blacken his wife's character he would shoot him on the spot. Dunmire is a big Leadvillian and looks as though he would make his talk good. nake his talk good.

Texas Trifles,

CHICAGO, December 19.—A special from Brownsville, Texas, says: Charles Lebar one was shot through the heart by an un-known party near Laredo. Nicholas Paez known party near Laredo. Nicholas Paez, recently captured near Cuerented, was bung to a grapevine. In a gambling difficulty at Matamoras, between Severiana Arredbude and Felipe Gonzales, the latter killed the former and the father of Arredbude killed Gonzales. A Mexican has been found murdered on the road near Rio Grande City, making the seventh murder in this locality in six weeks. Joseph P. Lindsay, of the Indian Territory, was found murdered and robbed twenty miles from here. Marcus Bruno, owner of a wagon train, was murdered in the field where he was taking care of his teams.

It is getting to be a common thing for cases of this kind to be instigated by parties who have personal difficulties of a petty nature to settle. The county is being put to useless expense in these cases almost daily, and it is time it should be stopped.

ABOUT TOWN.

There are telegrams at the Western Union office for Aphia Wright, Wm. Walters and Frank Paterson.

Much excitement was manifested last night when it became known that the "gin-up" had been heard from. Oh, boys, will you never tumble?

The California Vinegar Works on Los ngeles street will remove their traps and fects to Florence to-day, where they in-end to locate permanently.

Jose Batley, an anti-temperance agita-or, was run down by Officer Rolly last ight, and conducted to the "jug" for ome of his freaks on Main street.

As the west-bound train was coming into Yuma yesterday morning it ran into a freight train near the bridge. Some of the freight cars were somewhat jammed up. Had the express been running fast a a serious accident would have resulted.

Professor Robert Griff, & musical genius started out to do Sonora Town yesterday evening. He captured a guitar, and for commandment, "Thou shalt not steal." After playing a number of diffi-cult pieces he got tired and made a bar-gain with a saloon keeper whereby the sa-loon keeper became the possessor of a fifty loon keeper became the possessor of a nity dollar guitar for the paltry sum of two dollars. The saloon keeper 'smelt a mice' and notified officer Benitas, who conducted the Professor to the country jail, where he is liable to languish for a long period for being too fond of music. The owner of the guitar will find it at the police station.

Cleaning Out Cowboys.

Monday night was a good night for fighting men. Billie Gordon got to feeling good about 11:30 and sailed in to clear out two or three cow-boys. But his fun was ended yery suddenly. Officers Dobson and Horvery suddenly. Officers Dobson and Horner came to the assistance of the poor cow-boys, and conducted the heroic Billie to the county lodging house.

First-Class Passengers.

Pat. Connor, Albert Huber and James McKean, three first-class travelers on the Southern Pacific Railroad, were vanked out of a box car last night by officer Beni-tos. They objected to the officer's rough treatment, but he introduced them to the handcuffs, placed them in a street car, first-class carriage, and lodged them in the city hotel.

THE TRAMP AND TANANTULA.

He was a tramp, and he had tramped all ver the United States—on foot and by rail. He arrived in Los Angeles last Sun-day from Arizona. He didn't like Arizona. It was too far between drinks and grub was scarce. So he thought he would igrate to the "land of milk and honey." He came in on the morning train, five days from Tucson. He was thirsty. He longed the cooling beverage commonly called whiskey. Long before his arrival he had spent the last fifteen cent piece in the seat of his pants, and, he knew not how to get the desired nectar.

"My grip sack," said he, "may have something that I can trade to the bloated saloon keeper in yonder gilded palace for a small glass of 'boose."

He went through his carpet-bag—an old tin case—wrapped with a faded and torn handkerchief. But alast for the forgetfulness of poor human nature. He had forgotten that there was nothing in his trunk but a full grown tarantauls. An idea ness of poor human nature. He had forgotten that there was nothing in his trunk but a full grown tarantaula. An idea struck him. He got it into his head that California people would look upon one of these monster spiders with open eyes of wonderment. But he was mistaken. The bar keeper took him by the lower part of his pants and fired him, when he presented said bug. The poor fellow was astonished. He was more than astonished. He was more than astonished. To Whom it May Concern

The Street Commissioners of this city have evidently forgotten that it is their duty to look after the improvement of the town. She is at the St. Charles. streets of Los Angeles. It is a well known fact to the drivers of carriages, etc., that Main street is cut up with street car tracks at different points on the line, that are not used by the company. It is almost a daily occurrence for a buggy or wagon was to be taken off by these nacless.

Professor M consisted of declamations, orations and musical selections, were opened by an instrumental solo by the accomplished musician, Miss Maria Pruneda. The young lady performed one of Gottschalk's most difficult pieces, "Pasquinade," in a most xcellent manner.

The Rev. E. S. Chase offered an in pressive prayer. He asked that the institution might always be successful and might eventually be the pride of the people of Lower California.

Miss Pruneda played "Home, Sweet Home," in her usual charming style. FrankBarton read an original poem,"Los Angeles." The composition was very good and the young man's delivery was fully equal to the character of his production.

Miss Emma Sinsabaugh recited the "Painter of Seville" in a very pleasing manner." The young lady has a good voice and in time will make a good elocutionist.

Professor Fiske, the well known and popular tenor singer, rendered a delightful solo, which was thoroughly appreciated. Any criticism of this gentleman would be out of place, as his abilities are fully appreciated in Los Angeles.

Albert Lindley read an essay on the late

F. M. Larkin recited "Morality in Politics" in a pleasing way. His elecution is good and he has much dramatic power in his delivery.

Mrs. W. E. Beeson sang a soprano solo in her usual excellent style. Mrs. Beeson undoubtedly has one of the sweetest voices in this city. She was encored twice.

The question, "Were the Crusades Beneficial?" was then taken up and debated in an able manner by J. K. Burnett for the affirmative and F. E. Lacey for the negative.
